

November 22, 2006

To Whom It May Concern:

Having worked closely with Robert Price for three years, I can say without reservation that it was a delight and a privilege. Robert brings enthusiasm, energy, intellect, and artistry to all that he does.

Five years ago, as a new principal at a large Seattle elementary school, Robert was the person I needed at the time I needed him. Robert arrived in our school shortly after my own arrival. Together we created a vision for a collaborative, engaged, professional learning community and began the work of making that vision a reality. Robert was able by skill, expertise, and the sheer force of a positive personality to move teachers in directions they had not imagined possible.

It was a privilege to watch a transformation occur among teachers as they moved from a privatized to a team based, collaborative practice. Robert both cajoled and inspired teachers to literally step out in new ways towards participation in creation of a new school culture.

Robert brings many gifts to his professional practice. I recommend him for your program without hesitation. It is personally exciting to contemplate the ways he will continue to influence the profession as he develops his own attributes and skills.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in blue ink that reads "Linda Jambor Robinson". The signature is fluid and cursive, with a long horizontal flourish at the end.

Linda Jambor Robinson
Principal
Bryant Elementary School